Jerry Montella Elected to National Postal Policy Council Board of Directors

Warminster, Pa. (October 02, 2014) — Mail-Gard®, a division of IWCO Direct and one of the nation’s leading providers of critical communication recovery solutions, has announced that Jerry Montella, executive vice president of sales and marketing, has been elected to the National Postal Policy Council (NPPC) Board of Directors.

NPPC is a trade association that has established and maintained a trusted partnership with the USPS, focusing primarily on First-Class letter mail, and representing large business mailers. The association has been active in shaping postal policy and regulatory issues with both the Postal Service and the Postal Regulatory Commission, as well as on Capitol Hill. With a collaborative mission to drive continuous improvement and shape overall postal strategy, members have welcomed the Postmaster General, senior postal managers, Postal Regulatory Commissioners and key congressional staff to NPPC’s quarterly meetings since 1982.

“My membership over the past few years has been insightful and informative as the USPS navigates a changing landscape,” Montella said. “Our customers rely on the Postal Service when disaster strikes—and so do millions of people in their day-to-day business. We need strong, long-term solutions to achieve and maintain quality mailing service at an affordable price. NPPC has long been deeply involved in the search for and execution of those solutions, and I am proud to bring the unique insight of Mail-Gard’s continuity services to my duties as a board member.”
